Edition 5, 2023

Here we are again with our second crack at producing the Panui. Those of you keeping a keen eye on the calendar will see we are running a bit late on this edition. Since stepping into Leena's giant shoes, we have been absolutely blown away with the support from the community. We also have found that it takes a lot of work to produce

Editorial Team: Vicki & Hugh Ammundsen, Chris & Danielle Hoffmann contact @ karikaripanui.nz

We have been made to feel very welcome while we have been out and about attending events so the feature of this edition is community events.

the Panui so as we get into the swing of things the cadence might be a little irregular!

Starting out is the Tokerau beach fun run. After days of rain we were lucky to have the sky clear for what was a fantastic event.

Thank you Leena!

Leena has provided us we a few words that we would like to share with you all in her own words:

"Could you please add in a huge thank you from Tony and me - it was the last thing I was expecting and took me completely by surprise. I'd love to thank all those who contributed to the gift box; there were so many wonderful items - it was like Christmas! I'd also like to say thank you to those who sent thanks via email or phoned me after I announced I was stepping down. The last ten years has been a privilege to serve our community in this way - I am just one of many who have done or continue to do volunteer work to keep our community ticking over and make it such a great place to live"

Left: Karen presenting Leena with a thankyou gift basket acknowledging the 10 years of Panui news that she and Tony delivered.

Below: The Karikari Peninsula CCTV Team presenting Leena with a gift for all her work supporting the project.

Last edition we learnt the hard way just how much work goes into the Panui so to give it 10 years really is quite something. Each and every edition over the 10 years has been planned, outlined, produced and then finally printed on Leena's home printer.

Once again from all of us and the community . THANK YOU LEENA!

Public health warning: shellfish biotoxin alert for Northland and East Cape

New Zealand Food Safety is advising the public not to collect or consume shellfish gathered from the Northland east coast because of paralytic shellfish toxins.

In addition, it has extended an existing shellfish biotoxin warning from Cape Kidnappers right up to East Cape. "Routine tests on mussels from Houhora have shown levels of paralytic shellfish toxins over the safe limit," says New Zealand Food Safety deputy director-general Vincent Arbuckle.

The warning extends from Cape Karikari north to Kokota (the Sandspit), to just south of Parengarenga Harbour. The current warning in Hawkes Bay has now been extended to extend from Cape Kidnappers right up to East Cape. Levels of paralytic shellfish toxins are increasing and the latest results from Tolaga Bay mussels have risen dramatically and are now 11 times over the safe limit.

As algal blooms increase in size, the levels of toxins in shellfish can reach higher levels.

"Please do not gather and eat shellfish from these affected areas because anyone doing so could get seriously sick."

"Cooking the shellfish does not remove the toxin, so shellfish from these areas should not be eaten."

Symptoms of paralytic shellfish poisoning usually appear within 10 minutes to 3 hours of eating and may include:

- numbness and a tingling (prickly feeling) around the mouth, face, hands, and feet
- difficulty swallowing or breathing
- · dizziness and headache
- nausea and vomiting
- diarrhoea
- paralysis and respiratory failure and, in severe cases, death.

If someone gets sick after eating shellfish, make sure you:

- phone Healthline for advice on 0800 61 11 16, or get medical help immediately
- · advise your nearest public health unit
- keep any leftover shellfish in case it can be tested.

Taipa Bridge

Prior to the construction of the new bridge an archaeological assessment was carried out at the resource consent stage of the construction of the Taipa bridge. These archaeological investigations revealed structures and deposits relating to pre-Contact Māori temporary occupations focused on kaimoana cooking and processing at the western approach and abutment.

The report includes historic photographs of the area including this photo of the first Taipa Bridge.

The report also includes a fascinating record of coastal hydrosytems that reveal the abundance of recorded middens on the Karikari peninsula.

Karikari Peninsula Residents and Ratepayers next meeting is/was November 21 at 7pm at the Hall. All welcome.

In a heartfelt expression of gratitude, Karen Urlich recently shared a touching story about her late husband's significant contribution to our community. Back in 2000, he generously donated his skills and time to conduct all the earthworks needed for the construction of our beloved community hall, a gesture that has not been forgotten.

The Urlich family's appreciation extends beyond personal pride to a communal acknowledgment. "We as a family appreciate this gesture and thank the hall committee and Sana Ryan for the tree"

Each edition we will look to include some general legal information. This is what happens when you let two lawyers on the editorial team! This does not constitute legal advice as everyone's circumstances may be different. Community law provides free legal services thought New Zealand Taitokerau - Community Law

Law Corner

Every adult should have an enduring power of attorney (EPA). An EPA allows a person to appoint someone else to make decisions in respect of their property or welfare if a person cannot make their own decisions any more.

The following links to EPA forms also include helpful information about EPAs:

Personal Care and Welfare form [DOC, 107KB] Property form [DOC, 143KB]

If you lose mental capacity and you do not have an EPA, a court application is required to decide who can make decision for you, which entails delay and cost, and may result in someone making your decisions who would not have been the people or person you would have chosen.

Recipes

Each edition will include a locally inspired recipe. We would love to know if you try one. Please send us photos of your successes and failures!

Garlic Aioli (fabulous with fish)

This simple recipe is a wonderful accompaniment to locally caught fish.

Ingredients:

- 1 head of garlic
- 1 tsp capers
- 1 tsp mustard
- 1 egg
- Juice of ½ a lemon
- ½ tsp salt
- mild oil

Method:

- Peel the garlic and cut off the bottom edge.
- Put all ingredients into a stick blender jug and blend for 30 seconds. Slowly add the oil while blending until the aioli is the consistency of mayonnaise.
- For a more mild flavour, cut of the top quarter of the head of garlic, wrap in tinfoil with a splash of oil and roast until the garlic is soft enough to squeeze out of its papery skin.

Page 8 Carrington Estate Restaurant Review

Carrington Estate has the same daytime menu as Vue Bar. We chose to eat at the Restaurant and were lucky enough to have our choice of tables and chose to sit facing the beautiful Karikari Beach. We ordered the Salt & Pepper Squid with sweet chilli sauce, the Fried Chicken with sweet plum and ginger sauce and the Crumbed Mac & Cheese bites that was served with fries and garlic aioli.

Service was friendly and prompt although it would have been nice to have been given glasses to drink the water.

Both the squid and chicken arrived with a modest serve of an inoffensive coleslaw. The squid was very tender. The sweet chilli sauce, like the sweet plum and ginger sauce were commercial. Again inoffensive, but nothing to write home about. The serving of chicken was generous, but let down by the sauce. The younger member of our party declared the mac and cheese bits, which included unadvertised cubes of ham as "delicious." The accompanying fries, appeared beer battered rather than shoestring and were very good. The aioli was too mild to add much to the flavour profile. For anyone interested in a good aioli see the recipe above. Our younger diner was very happy with his hot chocolate. We would have finished with a cup of tea, but were not able to as Carrington had run out of English Breakfast tea.
